1965—a year to remember . . .

from that very first September day
until the final day in June we labored, learned, and laughed together.
the term ended, but we knew,
that this would be
a year to remember.

we became freshmen, sophomores,
juniors, and seniors
with anticipation.
a beginning for some,
an end for others.
challenges met, we forged ahead.

preoccupied with the future
we forgot the past.
then,
with one final glimpse,
we paused
and remembered . . .

. . . the fading scenes
of school life . . .

. . . the guiding hand of a teacher . . .

page 6

. . . the gratifying thoughts
of a service rendered . . .

. . . the supporting patrons of a community . . .

... the lasting bonds of a friendship ...

... the lingering thoughts
of a victory ...

... the maturing character of an individual ...

. . . the guiding hand of a teacher

they taught us with understanding and encouragement,
making Shakespeare's sonnets,
Bach's symphonies, or Avagadro's number easier to grasp.
they gave us the education we now possess.

in class, we gained the knowledge
we lacked,
the practice we needed,
and the skill we desired.
unconsciously, our world enlarged
and our experience widened.

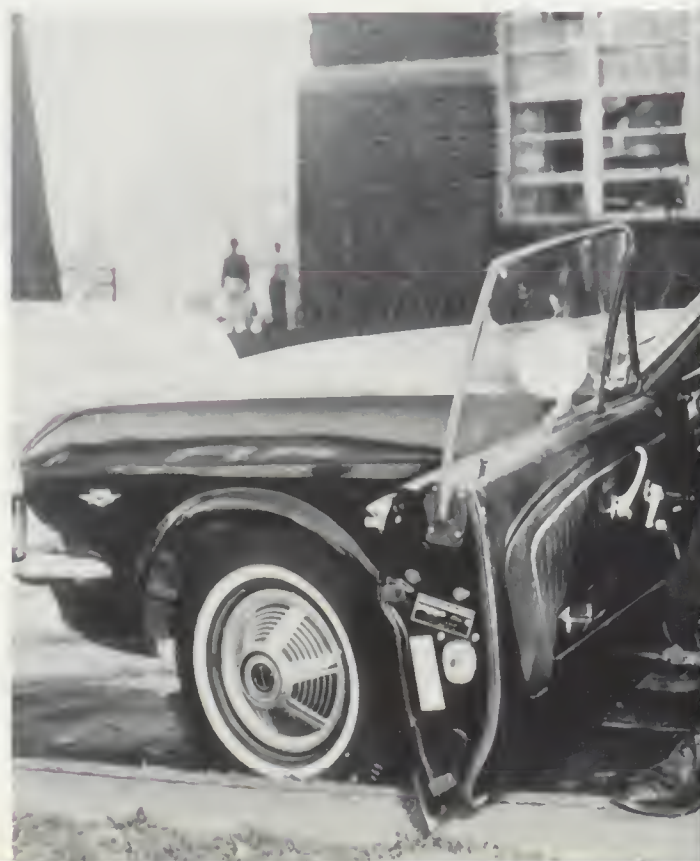

take a teacher, a class,
and remember their aims—
to produce a brilliant scientist, an informed citizen, a mature, well-rounded individual—a person, who will one day show others the same understanding.

administrators promote active interest

in school affairs

Mr. Marion B. England, principal, and Mr. John H. Smith, assistant principal were two of the busiest men at Emerson; yet they never became too busy to pay special attention to each student. They were always willing to speak individually with any parent, student, or teacher who wished an interview.

But their responsibilities were not limited to administrative duties. Games, dances, club inductions, and banquets were included in the administrative activities.

Taking an interest in all Gary Public Schools and the students who attended them, the Gary School Board worked year round to improve our educational system.

Mr. John H. Smith, assistant principal, prepares to face a day of blue slips, office chats, and parent interviews.

Mr. Marion B. England, principal, begins his school day after battling the morning traffic.

staffs' services help students,

Miss Julia Baran, Mr. Richard Pearce, and Miss Maxine Thomas, counselors, busily prepare the senior rankings.

After school is dismissed for the day, Mr. Dennis Gately begins his regular evening custodial duties.

Miss Alice Conyers, school nurse, demonstrates first aid to her "patient" Jane O'Brien, senior.

Behind the scenes of any smoothly-run school are the people who work to make it that way. Emerson has many such people who worked hand-in-hand toward the welfare of its students and teachers.

Among these people were the office staff who kept our school records in order. When students had problems or questions, the counselling staff was always ready to lend a hand. The nurse strived to keep students in good health, and the cafeteria staff made sure they maintained this health by preparing well-balanced meals each day. Working long into the evening, the custodians kept our school clean. Mrs. Irene Lahaie, school guard, looked after the safety of students going to and returning from school. Checking the authenticity of absence excuses was the job of Miss Mary Lou Coulter, home visitor.

teachers reach year's goals

Cafeteria staff—l. to r: Mrs. Rosebud Towshend, Mrs. Helen Hall, Mrs. Margaret Stutesman, Mrs. Mary Miklos, Mrs. Frances Tichansky, Mrs. Ruby Bassett, and Mrs. Ollic Robinson relax after the hectic lunch hours.

Miss Mary Lou Coulter, home visitor, investigates the absence of a student.

Weathering the wintery cold, Mrs. Irene Lahaie, Emerson's patrol guard, helps children returning from lunch.

english key to mastery

"Vocabulary lessons due tomorrow" . . . "composition assignment for Friday" . . . "outside reading book next week" . . . these were familiar worries for all English students. While grammar was an important phase of the total program, literature was the major area of study.

Freshmen met Charles Dickens through the eyes of Philip Pirrip in Great Expectations. Sophomores learned a lesson in leadership from Shakespeare's great tragedy, Julius Caesar. Shakespeare was studied on a more advanced level by seniors, who read his more complex tragedies, Hamlet, Macbeth, and, in advanced literature, King Lear. Besides reading and analyzing Thornton Wilder's Our Town, juniors spent long evenings at the library preparing their term papers.

Helping to make this year a rewarding experience for E.H.S. students were Mrs. Mable Bianchi, Miss Diana Blue, Mr. Robert Glazier, and Mr. Steve Parfenoff, new English staff members.

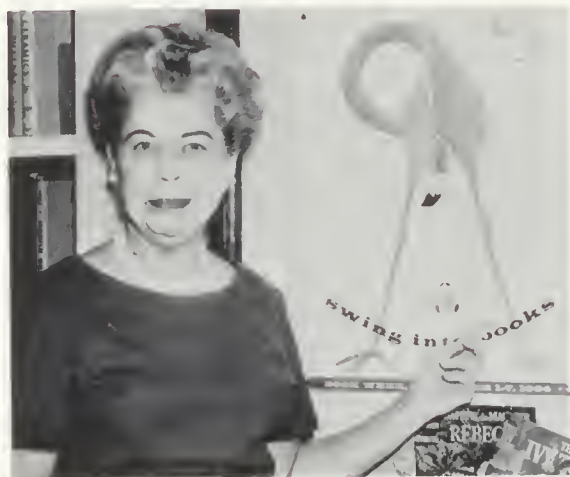

Mr. Fred Jones (inset) and Mrs. Helen Conway, special education teachers, work with students on the day's assignment.

of language skills

Mrs. Irma Plum, librarian, emphasizes the importance of Book Week to students working in the library.

language, journalism

From fall to spring . . . two to three hours a day . . . seven days a week . . . vacations . . . holidays . . . weekends . . . this was what it took to produce the Emersonian.

With an increased number of yearbook pages to fill, this year's staff worked exceptionally hard on a project requiring time, effort, and cooperation. Only after the final page was sent to the printer, the last line of copy written, and the last picture selected, did the staff know their job was completed.

Even after the yearbook staff had met their last deadline, the Norse Wind staff had not quite closed their '64-'65 news files. "Seniors Judge Juveniles" . . . "Convicts visit Emerson School" . . . "Vespers Feature Madrigal Group" . . . were among the stories covered by the Norse Wind staff. Following the old tradition of burning the night oil, students worked long into the evening before a next-day issue. Headed by Angeline Korfias, editor, the twenty-two member crew managed to meet the weekly deadline.

Working diligently, Linda Jablonski prepares pictures for a yearbook deadline.

"If she'd only move her hand, I could see that answer."

Publications sponsors, Mrs. Margaret Smar and Mr. John Hancock, pause for a moment to discuss the next deadline.

exercise oral, written skills

French students drill through pronunciation lessons in the language lab.

In today's modern world, countries are closer neighbors than ever before. It is essential that we, as good neighbors, are able to communicate with these countries.

Helping to achieve this goal, E.H.S. offered courses in three languages to interested students. Two of these languages, French and Spanish, shared the modern facilities of the language lab. The third, Latin, is no longer a spoken language but is still helpful in understanding the English language since many words are of Latin derivation.

Many French and Latin students participated in language contests held throughout the year.

Mr. Lawrence DeLeurere tells Miss Veronica Gurauskas and Miss Mary Ban, language instructors, of the success of his recent Latin Club picnic.

Sophomore Violet Milisavljevic attempts to "smooth out" her French pronunciation in the language lab.

history is a guideline for the future

Man has progressed a long way since swords, plowshares, and spears. He now has more advanced weapons, and there is no longer a threat of war between two nations but between a whole world of nations. In the complex times of today it is necessary that every one knows and understands what is happening around him, but before he can begin to understand he must know what has happened in the past.

As a basis to begin this study, world history dealt with the civilizations of all countries from the time of primitive man until today. U.S. history gave students a look at the history of the United States from the time of colonization until modern day America. Dealing with the problems that arise today, government and economics gave students an understanding of the operation of today's government and economic systems.

"... and then after I won the war ..."

Students take a few minutes to review before a U.S. history test.

math, science promote student interest

Mrs. Margaret Lane looks on as her math students solve problems from the board.

Math students Lorraine Forbes and Cleo Milligan, freshmen, attempt to solve a tough algebra problem.

"I wish I was back at last night's skating party."

in future careers

Bio-physics gave students a general outlook into the study of biological and physical science. Plant diagrams, insect collections, and animal classifications were familiar biology projects. Advanced biology was a new course introduced to help bridge the gap between general biology and college biology. Working with test tubes and formulas, chemistry students learned the technique of performing lab experiments. The basic principles of friction, motion, and force in physics made students aware of the laws of nature present around them.

In the field of mathematics, general math, applied math, and senior math were courses dealing in basic arithmetic. Students of Algebra I and Algebra II learned a new approach to solving math problems by using symbols instead of numbers. Postulates and theorems caused puzzling problems for plane geometry students. The more interested students took trigonometry.

Kathy Koutsis, junior, completes a bio-physics lesson by viewing the parts of a grasshopper through a microscope.

After seeing a movie on the principles of friction, physics students discuss their notes.

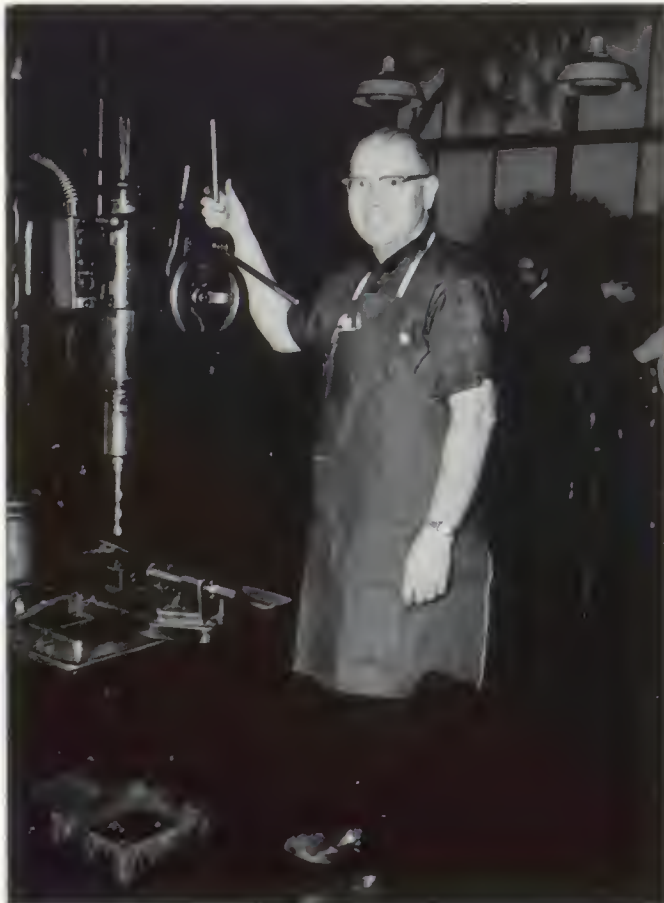

Mr. Daryl Boggs demonstrates a new experiment to his attentive colleagues, Mr. Norman Koerwitz, Mrs. Mary Hunter, and Mr. Phil Ryals, science teachers.

photography, industrial arts important

Mr. Val Aurit, drafting instructor, seems pleased with a student's completed assignment.

Mr. Earl Spiece demonstrates the use of a drill press to his machine shop class.

After receiving his assignment, Ron Bartley, senior, prepares a lathe project.

to student vocations

Preparing students for positions as architects, carpenters, photographers, and machinists was the purpose of courses in industrial arts and photography.

Under the classification of industrial arts were machine shop and drafting. Machine shop offered students the chance to become acquainted with the operation of such machines as the drill press and the lathe. Drafting taught students the basic fundamentals of drawing blueprints. Students developed building, house, and landscape designs.

Photography courses not only instructed students on how to take pictures, but also on how to develop, enlarge, and reprint them.

Another aspect to the Photography Department, the audio-visual class, taught students the operation of projectors and filmstrips.

Bruce Timberman, senior, adjusts the lens before enlarging several photographs.

Mr. John Holubes demonstrates proper photographic procedure to his photography class.

Bruce learns to operate a movie projector as part of his audio-visual class training.

music, commercial

Shining gold robes . . . stately band uniforms . . . pretty girls in formals, handsome boys in suits . . . lovely choral voices . . . huge base drums . . . tiny percussion instruments blending harmoniously . . . crowded auditorium . . . an absorbed audience . . . these were the sights and sounds of a musical concert whether it be orchestra, band or vocal. The traditional Christmas Vespers featured the combined efforts of the A Cappella Choir, the Girls' Glee Club, and the Orchestra. When the December snows gave way to the spring rains and flowers, young and old filled the school auditorium for the annual concerts of the Band, Orchestra, and Vocal Departments.

A more academic area of the musical department was theory and harmony, a course required for students wishing to major in music. In this, students learned basically how to compose music.

Miss Judith Nichols and Mr. Robert Velasco, new staff members, were introduced to the Music Department this year.

Relaxing after a day of teaching others to appreciate music are Mr. Robert Velasco, Mrs. Anne Masters, and Miss Judith Nichols, music instructors.

Wayne Key, senior, finds time to practice before the Regional Band Contest.

skills strengthen mind and talent

Upon hearing the signal to start, Typing II begins a five-minute timed writing.

General business students prepare for a coming test covering the basic techniques of personal and family budgeting.

Serving as an introduction to all business courses, general business gave students a broad look at the various phases of the business world. A more specific course, bookkeeping, trained students in the fundamentals of keeping accurate records of business transactions. Business law, offered for the first time at Emerson and taught by Mr. Ralph Woehler, instructed students in the basic state and federal laws pertaining to business.

For those students who were inclined to secretarial work, courses in typing and shorthand were a must. Teaching typing were Mrs. Lola Clune, a new faculty member, and Miss Bernice Beeler.

Switching from the classroom scene to a business scene, distributive education gave students the experience of working in such Gary stores as Sears Roebuck & Co., Newberry, and W. T. Grant.

students develop

Quality artwork is an important part of Emerson's art program as stressed by Miss Lucille Solich, instructor.

Freshman Lydia Zaronis prepares an exhibit of artificial flowers to be displayed during National Education Week.

talents through creative arts program

Shiny bronze pots, round cake pans, oddly-shaped bandages, various colored threads—these were tools of the trade for students enrolled in home economics or art courses.

The home economics courses attempted to instruct girls in how to become efficient homemakers. In clothing the girls began by learning the basic steps of sewing, such as cutting and pinning patterns. By the end of the year, dresses, jumpers, and blouses were popular sewing projects. Cooking taught them the importance of a well-balanced diet and how to prepare difficult but appetizing dishes. In home nursing, girls learned basic first aid and infant care. Modern living was a course in which marriage problems were analyzed and solved.

Appealing to the interest of both sexes, art offered students who had artistic ability the chance to develop this talent. Among other things, they learned how to design, letter, and paint signs and posters. Posters were often seen displayed in the halls, and many were entered in such contests as Fire Prevention Week and Gordon's Fashion Contest.

Sewing class gives Carolyn Richardson, junior, the opportunity to add a new blouse to her wardrobe.

Kathy Groover, freshman, tests her skill in preparing tapioca pudding as part of her foods class lesson.

Mrs. Bertha Jessee displays some of the garments completed by her sewing class to Mrs. Bessie Braggs (left) and Mrs. Iris Martinsen (right). All are home economics teachers.

students learn sportsmanship, physical

Discussing the possibilities of this year's teams are l. to r: Coaches William Klug, Walter Smoot, Harry Szulborski, and Harold Connelly.

Mrs. Helen Mosier and Mrs. Marcia Dokas, girls' physical ed instructors, enjoy a minute of relaxation between classes.

skills in p.e. class

Exercising, tumbling, calisthenics, sports, swimming, these make up the curriculum of a typical gym class.

Beginning and ending the cycle of sports was baseball. This soon gave way to a more vigorous form of exercise resulting in speedball for the girls and football for the boys. When it became necessary to hibernate for the winter, basketball was the first indoor sport. With it completed, everyone tried his hand at tumbling. Soon replacing the tumbling mats were the volleyball nets. Between these other sports, the classes found time for a weekly dip into the pool.

Strong minds as well as strong bodies were the prime objectives of the physical education program. Therefore, as much emphasis was placed on good sportsmanship as on good playing ability.

Sharing the girls' lower gym with Mrs. Helen Mosier this year was Mrs. Marcia Dokas, a new faculty member.

Swimmers prepare for practice in the backstroke during a swim session.

Students begin their gym hour by limbering up before a game of basketball.

. . . the lasting bonds of a friendship

the names were unknown,
the faces unfamiliar.
they sat behind us, walked near us.
soon, the names became known,
the faces familiar.
mere acquaintances became friends.

before long, the names became synonymous with loyalty,
comfort, laughter.
good times as well as
bad were shared.
. . . the bond was formed.

we may forget a gay party,
a game with its
overtime and victory,
a night out
with "the gang,"
but never a friendship.

future goals set pace for seniors

After finishing four years of high school, seniors will further their education, enter the world of business or perhaps look for a career in the Armed Forces. No matter what occupation they pick they will always remember their high school days at Emerson.

Reminiscing, they will remember their first football game, their Freshman Frolic, the Sophomore Hop, and their first Prom. They will realize that all the work they had to do such as writing term papers, working algebra problems or just doing everyday homework was not really as bad as they thought it was.

Certain people such as Angeline Korfias, valedictorian, and Pat Christo, salutatorian, will always stand out in their minds as being outstanding academically.

Seniors will have many things to remember from their high school days especially the thrill and excitement of Class Day, Baccalaureate and Commencement, which marked the beginning of a new way of life.

"I don't care if you are bigger than I am . . .

juniors receive rings as year begins

Brewing up something in the chemistry lab and gathering ideas for a term paper completed the junior year. Daily walks to the library, long hours at the typewriter, and burning the night oil enabled them to earn their 13 credits to become seniors. Thinking seriously about their future, they consulted with counselors about colleges and vocations in the business world.

"Would you rather cook a meal, mend a broken toy, or give someone a shampoo?" This was just one of the many questions juniors were faced with on the Kuder test. Other tests that were taken were the National Merit, SCAT, and PSAT. Though there was plenty of work to do, juniors still found time to have fun. At the annual PTA Fun Festival, the junior girls put on a skit for Spice and Variety called "Kids." The long-anticipated events were the announcing of the 1965-66 G.A.A. Board and attending the Junior-Senior Prom.

A black and white landscape photograph of a body of water, possibly a lake or bay, with a forested shoreline in the background. Three birds are in flight: one in the upper right, one in the middle right, and one on the left side.

I want to know, when day is done,
that life has been worth living . . .
that I have brought somebody joy through kind, unselfish giving.

I want to feel, when evening falls,
and shadows quickly lengthen,
that I have made somebody glad,
some weakness I have strengthened.

I want to know, that come what may,
I've left some cheer and gladness;
I want to know, that on my way,
I've banished someone's sadness.

I want to feel, at close of day,
that someone's cares were lighter;
because of kindness I have done,
may someone's life be brighter.

sophomores end in-between year

Need we say more?

Highlighting the sophomore year were the ordering of class rings and the Sophomore Hop. Writing autobiographies and memorizing lines from Julius Caesar were major class assignments.

As the year progressed, the sophs began to realize the importance of studying and getting good grades.

While attending football games, school dances, or just walking the school halls, they began to lose that feeling of being strangers. The faces weren't so strange now, and the other students seemed friendlier.

The sophomores now look forward to their last two years with anticipation of receiving class rings and attending the Junior and Senior Prom.

frosh venture into a world

Freshmen began experiencing the daily routine of high school life and adjusting to their courses. They participated in school functions and awaited the Freshman Frolic.

A Friday night dance, a pizza at the Flamingo, a bus ride to Gilroy, and butterfly nets were a part of the freshman "initiation." As the year progressed, the novelty wore off, work became more difficult, and assignments seemed longer. The hubbub of high school life became a routine.

Gaylene Smith, Nada Pcyovich, and Janet Ershick perform for their GAA rushers during Scum Week initiation.

Bottom to top: Bob Brown, boys' treasurer; Terry Waggoner, girls' treasurer; Sheila Griffin, secretary; Liz Christo, vice-president; Patti Taylor, president.

. . . the maturing character of an individual

to be a part of something,
whether a leader
or follower,
we joined an organization.
we were initiated, pledged,
or inducted.

together in common interests,
we attended meetings,
planned dances, drives,
and field trips.
we learned the value of participation.

membership developed us as individuals,
in character and personality.
membership required responsibility.
accepting it, we gained maturity and experience.

Looking over the agenda for the next meeting, Student Council officers are, l. to r: Steve Szabo, president; Laurie Riley, secretary; Mr. Dan McDevitt, sponsor; Cesar Alvarez, vice-president.

. . . "This organization shall be known as the Emerson High School Student Council" . . . "The general purpose of this body shall be the promotion of the welfare of Emerson School" . . .

Composed of one president and two representatives from each class, and a representative from each organization, Student Council, under the guidance of Mr. Dan McDevitt, met during the lunch period to create rules and regulations to govern the school. Besides being the legislative body of the school, the Student Council planned the Christmas Basket Drive in December and the S.O.S. Drive in February. They also directed Senior Day and "E" Day activities.

"I pledge myself to uphold the high purposes of this society to which I have been elected, striving in every way, by word and deed, to make its ideals of my school and my life."

Students, outstanding in scholarship, leadership, character, and service, were elected into the Emerson Chapter of the National Honor Society during the fall and spring of the school year. They took the society pledge at the April induction with a candlelight ceremony and invited students and parents.

During the course of the year, the Honor Society sold paperback books to students and faculty in an effort to raise money for their annual spring picnic at Marquette Park.

Six Emerson students, meeting with other students from area schools, took advanced courses in psychology, political science, chemistry, and math as participants in the Joe Berg program. These students were selected on the basis of test scores and recommendations.

Another scholastic achievement by Emerson students was membership in Quill and Scroll, an international honorary society for high school journalists. To become members, student journalists performed superior work in some phase of journalism and were recommended by a supervisor of publications.

Pursuing answers to world problems, World Affairs Forum members met each month to discuss world issues. Every year, three juniors and three seniors are selected from each of Gary's nine high schools to participate in the forum. Schools rotated as discussion leaders at each month's session. In May, Emerson led the discussion on Malaysia and Indonesia.

In December, Debate Club members were given an opportunity to exercise debate techniques at the National Debaters Conference at Purdue University.

Occupatus, occupatus, occupatus—busy, busy, busy—could have been the slogan for this year's Latin Club, sponsored by Mr. Lawrence DeLeurere; if members weren't hiking at Dunes State Park, they were participating in a pantomime skit at the Edison conference or in a lecture at I.U. Northwest Extension.

"Miss Ban, would you please pass the hot sauce for my tacos?" was a probable statement made when fourteen Spanish Club members and Miss Mary Ban, sponsor, dined at an Indiana Harbor restaurant that specialized in Mexican food. In April, the Spanish Club sponsored the Spanish Fiesta.

Wearing berets and smocks while carrying easels and brushes, both new and old Art Club members for the first time dressed as artists during the Art Club initiation. Two field trips—one to the Art Institute and another to the Oriental Art Institute—acquainted students with prominent artists.

In the science area, under the direction of new teacher and sponsor, Mr. Daryl Boggs, Emerson's Science Club members visited the Museum of Science and Industry, Adler's Planetarium, and entered projects in the Indiana Regional Science Fair.

October brought fall winds and the initiation of G.A.A. scums. Another year of sports and social activities was available to girls who joined the Girls' Athletic Association.

Throughout the year, members participated in outdoor and indoor sports, earning points to maintain a good standing in the organization. Extra points were earned through bike and walking hikes and by popping popcorn at the football and basketball games.

In December, the girls and their guests attended the annual Couple Dance, "Candleglow and Mistletoe," held at the Shcraton Inn.

Ron Benjamin was named G.A.A. Pin-Up Boy at the Basketball Spread in March. The other candidates were John Prascak and Larry Klim.

The G.A.A. Banquet held in May closed the year with the announcement of the newly elected 1965-66 G.A.A. Board and individual recognition of outstanding members.

Cooking meals, typing letters, tutoring students, and serving the public were the activities of Emerson's career organizations that developed students for their desired occupations.

Students interested in domestic duties joined the Future Homemakers of America. This year, under the direction of Mrs. Iris Martinsen, members reorganized the club and revised the constitution.

Twelve members of the Future Business Leaders of America experienced daily routine work at either a business, institution, or hospital on Career Day.

Five members of the Future Teachers of America tutored students at the Dorie Miller Housing Project. During Education Week, members of F.T.A. served as hostesses to visiting parents and guests.

Distributive Education and Business Co-op enabled students to "earn while learning." Going to school in the morning and working in the afternoon, seniors established themselves in business concerns which would eventually give them full-time jobs.

D.E. students attended daily instruction sessions on business methods, taught by Mr. Floyd McKibben. Mr. Edward Hardie instructed the Business Co-op in the use of business machines. Membership in Co-op is determined on the basis of test results and places the individual in business offices. D.E. students are placed on the job to sell and distribute goods.

Drum major Perry Arnn

Heads high and in step, drum majors and majorettes led the school band while they marched to "Emerson Loyalty." This year's band was fortunate to have two drum majors to share the load.

Booster Committee, sponsored by Mrs. Leora Davies, helped boost team spirit and succeeded this year in getting a little male backing in the cheering section. But if they weren't stirring school spirit, they were organizing the Homecoming, the Senior Personalities' voting, or the Senior Farewell at the end of the year.

The Social Committee, sponsored by Mrs. Shirley Simonson, provided a semi-formal night of dancing for Emersonians and their dates at the Snow Ball in January. This committee is also responsible for providing records for school dances.

Vibrating every beam with jazz numbers and dance tunes, the Dance Band met every Wednesday after school to practice, either for enjoyment or preparation. In January, they took part in the Regional Solo and Ensemble Contest and provided music at the Senior Farewell in May.

played on . . .

Marching on the football field and down the streets surrounding Emerson, the band practiced after school and in the evenings to perfect their performances for Homecoming, Purdue Band Day, and for the Memorial Day Parade. When they were confined to the band room during the colder months, they worked a little harder as members of duets, trios, and quartets for the District Music Contest in January. In March, they performed for the student body at their annual Band Concert.

"Go Emerson go, we're all for you," roared from the auditorium doors as students and the Pep Band took part in weekly pep sessions. Accompanying the football team and students, they provided moral support with their peppy marches and lively renditions of school songs.

rise as concert nears

Violins sang, drums rolled, and cymbals clashed at the Orchestra's annual December concert. Featured were numbers by Bach, Bizet, Tschaikowsky, and Gounod. Under the direction of Mrs. Anne K. Masters and Mr. Robert Velasco, the orchestra also found time for the annual State Solo and Ensemble Contest, the City-Wide Music Festival, and Commencement activities.

This year the String Ensemble set the mood at the Christmas Vespers by providing the traditional Christmas music. Three members of this group showed outstanding accomplishments this year. String players, Jacqueline Dodds and Mary Gress were selected to participate in the Chicago Youth Orchestra Concert which performed in Chicago's Orchestra Hall. Cello player Yvonne Richards became a member of the Gary Symphony Orchestra.

... "do, re, mi, fa, sol, la, ti, do" ... Emerson's A Cappella and Glee Club tuned up on many occasions to perform for the student body and outside audiences. In November, during Education Week, A Cappella sang for the P.T.A.'s open house, as well as for other meetings. Sponsoring the "Harvest Moon" dance in October, the group raised enough money to buy new choir robes. Combining their efforts with the Drama Department, the A Cappella and the Glee Club sang for the annual Christmas Vespers, presenting traditional Christmas carols such as "O Holy Night" and "Hallelujah." Both groups sang at their annual spring concert and participated in the City-wide Spring Festival. They finished the year by singing at Baccalaureate and Commencement.

In addition to their roles as A Cappella members, ten students performed as a Madrigal group and met for practice sessions every morning. This newly-formed group was featured at the Christmas Vespers and participated in the State Music Festival in February.

"Come Blow Your Horn," directed by Miss Diana Blue and Miss Judie Shepherd highlighted the year's Drama Club productions. The comedy concerns an elderly playboy, Alan Baker (Joe Repya), who finally falls into the bonds of matrimony with Connie Dayton (Zorine Radovich), a sophisticated actress.

Also taking a role in drama were "E" Club members, those boys earning a Varsity letter in any of the six major school sports. A comedy entitled "The Woman-Less Wedding" was presented as an "E" Club production. Paul Coker portrayed Miss Tiny Oats who wed Mr. J. Filvverton, Barley, played by Roger Silcr.

A new addition to Emerson's organizations was the Chess Club, sponsored by Mr. Sargon Eivaz. Members met twice monthly learning the rules and ethics of the game and competed in tournaments with one another.

Under the command of Sergeant Jack McNichols, the Reserve Officers Training Corps surged ahead again this year in performance. Emerson was named an R.O.T.C. honor school after an overall inspection of the organization by General John Pugh of the 6th Army Headquarters in Chicago. An R.O.T.C. board of conduct was added to handle disciplinary action, which maintained the high calibre of the organization.

During the year the Rifle Team was awarded second place in competition with Wallace and Tolleston. In November, they defeated Joliet. For further rifle competition, they traveled to Culver Military Academy in Culver, Indiana, in February, and to Missouri in March. Out of a possible 300, the team averaged 229 for their shooting average. The Rifle Team won the city championship for 1964.

The Drill Team competed in precision drills with the Gary high schools and Joliet High School. In April, they competed in Indianapolis, and a selected squad from the team went to Western Michigan University. The Drill Team also won the 1964 city competition.

These sounds and bits of conversation were exchanged throughout the year in room 205 during long hours after school when the Emersonian and Norse Wind staffs and sponsors met to prepare the school publications.

Norse Wind staff members experienced the joy of a finished story that had to be rewritten and retyped many times and faced the frustration of an issue that failed after hours of work because of an unexpected problem that arose.

Picture layouts, pressing deadlines, lack of copy information, and long hours that dulled the mind confronted the Emersonian staff members. Finally, the last deadline arrived and they sent off the last few pages to the Taylor Publishing Company. Then, with anticipation, they awaited the arrival of the book in May when they saw their year of work in finished form.

Although these problems seemed overpowering, both staffs succeeded in meeting their responsibilities: informing the student body and recording the past year.

there are memories of a game
with its popcorn
and lime-sickles;
a dance, with its loud music, and
white socks on a gym floor,
keeping time to a Dave Clark Five.

during lunch breaks,
we laughed with friends,
enjoyed the sock hops.
visiting the corner drugstore.
attending a meeting or walking to the library

summer brings relaxation and reminiscing

Alex Glumac creates a new diving technique?

"Don't look now fellas, but I think we're being 'Kodaked.'"

"Hope I beat the mailman!"

Warm, sunny days, crowded beaches, and happy, sun-tanned students were a very common sight during the summer months. If not building sand castles near the water they were dancing near the concession stand. Of course, a few students spent all of their time eating potato chips, drinking cokes, and barbecuing hot dogs.

Although summer vacation lasted only three short months, it appeared to be adequate time for Emerson students to relax for the coming nine months of school.

"My name is Tasha, Special Agent 007½."

"Now if I could only remember how to play?"

"When will EHS ever get rid of those pigeons!"

"Oh! you lucky girls . . ."

football-o-rama queen crowned

"Oh! Lynn, I'm so happy for you." says Carole Paul as Lynn is announced queen.

Lynn Ward is crowned Emerson's Football-O-Rama queen by Sandra Sue Miller, Miss Indiana.

in summer heat

During a blistering hot afternoon in September, Emerson students, armed with sun-glasses and sun hats, swarmed Gilroy Stadium to see the crowning of Emerson's new Football-O-Rama queen.

Half-time ceremonies began with a motorcade of soon-to-be queens. Eight new queens were to be crowned, one representing each Gary high school. Four girls ran for the position of Football-O-Rama queen; juniors Carole Paul and Laurie Riley; and seniors Barbara Spurlock and Lynn Ward.

Cheers roared as Lynn Ward was announced Emerson's winner, with Carole Paul selected as runner-up.

Football-O-Rama is the first of many ceremonies during the school year in which Emersonians crown a queen to represent their school. The crowning of queens seems to be a great part of the activities of a school.

Lynn Ward and Carole Paul with escorts Jim Jasperson and Barry Hansen await the announcement of the Football-O-Rama queen.

let's do the jerk . . . .

"Swim" . . . "Fish" . . . "Scotch" . . . "Shake" . . . "Watusi" . . . "Popeye" . . . "Jerk" . . . dances with vivid names, forms, and movements replaced the "Twist," "Pony," and "Mashed Potatoes"—"oldies" of a previous year.

Dances at E.H.S. began early in the year. The Get-Acquainted Dance helped old and new faces meet friends. The G.A.A. Couple Dance in December was a semi-formal affair and was the only turn-about dance of the year. Other dance activities included the Sophomore Hop, the S.O.S. Dance, the Freshman Frolic, and the Junior-Senior Prom. Among the closing dances of the year were the Publications Dance and the Senior Farewell. For the first time this year, Emerson's "E" Club sponsored lunch-hour sock hops as between-class activities.

"and the next Homecoming queen candidate is . . ."

Golden mums . . . enthusiastic cheers . . . a glittering crown . . . long formals . . . proud escorts . . . hopeful candidates . . . a tense crowd . . . a reigning queen!!!

Tears of happiness fell as Mr. Marion B. England, principal, crowned Karen Conquest Emerson's Homecoming Queen at the half-time ceremonies held during the Emerson-Lew Wallace football game.

Homecoming was the one time during the year when Emerson alumni returned to help cheer the team on to victory and to watch the crowning of the new queen.

After the game, students, the new queen, and her court returned to Emerson to take part in the Homecoming Dance held in the girls' lower gym. Gold and grey streamers, cardboard football players, colorful murals, and scattered glitter greeted students as they arrived for an evening of soft lights, moody music, and friendly conversation. Homecoming, '65, ended here.

"... Karen Conquest."

Vitality, plus school spirit, plus initiative, equal cheerleaders. Emerson's varsity and reserve pep squads cheered their way through 11 football games and 18 basketball games this year.

Boosting the teams involved only half of their year. The other half consisted of practices, contests, and pep sessions.

While at cheering camp this summer, varsity cheerleaders learned many new cheers which were later used at pep sessions and varsity events. The squad's cheerleading ability brought them a first-place ribbon in one of the camp contests.

festival scenes

"Come one, come all to the Emerson High School P.T.A. Fun Festival! Visit the terrifying Spook House, try your luck at the cake walk, fish at the fish pond, or be entertained at the Variety Show!"

Emerson's Fun Festival has two main purposes: to entertain and to create amusement for students and parents and to raise money for worthwhile projects supported by the Emerson P.T.A.

Introduced this year for the first time since 1961 were the Senior Personalities. New amusements, such as the Hoop-la and the Jail, were added to the Festival's "side shows."

. . . the lingering thoughts of a victory

looking back we remember,
a team
which made a touchdown
at Gilroy,
a basket at Memorial,
a first in a fifty-yard dash.

although losses outweighed wins, teams gave their time unselfishly, and
displayed sportsmanship.
some laughed and said they could not,
. . . but they tried.

do not pity the Emerson athlete.
he has
exhibited more spirit
than all of us.
he has
represented his school.

Emerson's Golden Tornado finished the 1964 season with a record of 2-8-1, being plagued throughout the season by many injuries.

In the initial contest of the season, the Tornado fought to a scoreless tie against Lew Wallace in the Football-O-Rama. Traveling to Highland, the Emerson gridders defeated the Trojans by an 18-14 count. The Tornado then suffered consecutive losses to Hobart, Tolleston, Hammond Tech, Lew Wallace, Froebel, Horace Mann, and Roosevelt. The season ended on an upswing as the Tornado defeated Wirt, 20-0.

Senior end Steve Szabo received the high-scoring honors on the team by tallying 30 points. A 70-yard pass-play highlighted Szabo's season.

Although the Norse season proved to be less than what had been desired the squad turned in many exciting performances this year.

Senior forward, John Jolly, set the Emerson crowd on the edge of their seats with several dunk-shots against Merrillville's Pirates while Tony Miles, senior center, turned in the season's scoring record with thirty points against Wirt's Troopers. Guard, Steve Szabo, followed Miles to take second in the year's overall scoring record.

After a 13-point margin defeat over cross-town rival, Horace Mann, a jubilant Norse squad carried Coach Bill Klug off the floor.

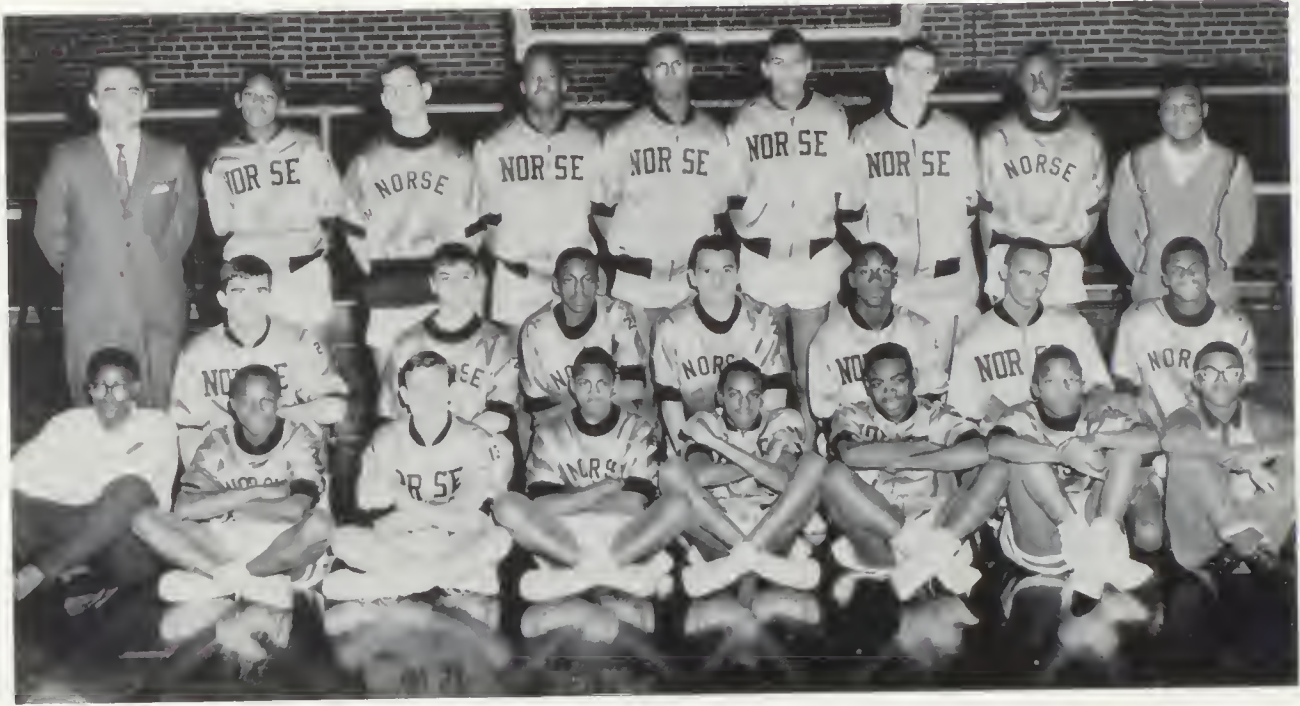

Leaving at the end of the year will be seniors Bill Hanyard, guard; John Jolly, forward; Tony Miles, center; and Steve Szabo, guard.

Byron Ayres turns over a Wirt opponent for a pin.

Coach Szulborski seems to be administering the last rites as he and Roger Siler rest before the overtime period.

state meet

Senior Byron Ayres and junior Rusty Popa paced the Emerson wrestling team to an eighth place position among 128 teams entered in this year's state competition.

After winning the city, conference, sectional, and regional championships, 165-pound wrestler, Ayres, placed second in the entire state in his class, while Popa placed first in the city, conference, sectional, and regional competition and placed third in the 145-pound class in the state meet.

Alan Pinkstaff, heavyweight, had an outstanding 10-1-1 record in dual competition while much lighter teammate, Roger Siler, went undefeated in the dual meets.

Because he was unable to unseat the wrestlers in the 154- and 145-pound divisions, senior Bill Pendleton lost 22 pounds to wrestle in the 133-pound division. "He had to continually watch his weight and stayed in this class through sheer determination and desire," according to Coach Harry Szulborski.

Gone from next year's team will be seniors Byron Ayres, Jim Carter, Milton Hinchman, Mike Karlrud, Bill Pendleton, Alan Pinkstaff, Roger Siler, and Richard Stafford.

Coach Szulborski commented that next year's team should prove to be very strong with returning wrestlers Paul Mather and Rusty Popa, juniors; and Jerry Stewart, freshman.

Roger Siler rides Bob Rogers in a match with Wirt.

Alan Pinkstaff grabs his opponent's leg for a quick takedown.

Rusty Popa tries to make a quick reversal in the city meet.

"slammin' sams" face bogies and birdies

Trying to better last year's .500 record, the Linkmen had four veteran golfers returning this year.

Dave Carnahan, junior, made long drives and dead-eye putts in an attempt to break a 1963 Emerson record of three-over-par which was set at South Gleason Park.

Coach Mike Sosh, in his third year as golf coach, centered his team around juniors John Burns, Dave Carnahan, Mike Carnahan, and Joe Day; and seniors Jim Kupres and Mick Tesanovich.

"Should I play for the ball to break to the left or right?" wonders golfer John Burns.

Dave Carnahan addresses the ball before attempting a long drive.

youthful two-milers run up 8-4-1 season

Four juniors, a sophomore, and a senior compiled an admirable 8-4-1 record this year under the coaching of Harold Connelly.

Gleason Park was the setting as the Harriers lost only to Froebel. Hammond Clark, Hammond High, Tolleston, and Valparaiso in these two-mile contests.

Bolstering next year's team will be the reserve runners who had a near-perfect 10-0 record this year.

The fourth place conference team will lose only Judson Parker, senior; and will have returning seniors Jim Mantakounis, Raleigh Plesko, Art Vasquez, and George Wall. next year.

Here is Jim Mantakounis. Look at him run! He is running fast. He is tired. Pant! Pant! Pant!

parker and pinkstaff shoot for new

"On your mark! Get set! Go!"—the call of the starter was familiar to Emerson's Cindermen as they strived for a successful season.

All meets this year were conference contests; however, last year's team compiled a 5-2 record in dual meets.

The initial contest of the year was held at the University of Chicago's fieldhouse where last year's team placed fourth.

Byron Ayres skims over a high hurdle to prepare for future meets.

Leon Stath, Floyd Kuykendall, and Frank Jones take a breather from vigorous running in spring practice.

track records

Judson Parker, senior, sought to break his own Emerson indoor mile record of 4:37.2 which he had set as a junior. Alan Pinkstaff, senior shot-putter who threw over 52 feet in early practice, attempted to break the Emerson record of 51' 4½".

Seniors Byron Ayres, Wayne Key, Mike Karlrud, Mike Mako, Judson Parker, and Alan Pinkstaff will be lost to next year's squad.

Byron Ayres and Leon Stath run in early practice.

Alan Pinkstaff follows through with a shotput attempt during spring practice.

hurlers have three returning veterans

Wellman swings to drive a long smash to right.

With all but three starting ballplayers lost through graduation, Emerson's diamond-men had a very young and inexperienced team this year to better last year's 6-8 record.

Bob Ricard, senior pitcher, was the backbone of Emerson's hurling staff and Steve Szabo and Gerry Wellman filled the second and third base spots, respectively.

Bob Ricard follows through to strike out the side.

Ricard concentrates on a curve from the pitcher.

In the newly-formed intramural basketball league initiated by Mr. Fred Jones, the senior class's Sixty-fivers posted a 10-0 season record and became the league's first champions.

The outstanding team effort in the games came when the senior five won a 103-9 victory over R.O.T.C. representatives.

Called a welcome addition to the school's sports picture, the league was made up of eight teams sponsored by various school organizations.

Pete Poznic takes careful aim before tossing in a free-throw.

. . . the supporting patrons of a community

we needed a formal
for the Prom,
a corsage for our date.
we needed a suit dry-cleaned.
we had the car
but needed the gas.

we ate pizzas by the dozen,
drank cokes by the gallons.
hungry, we ran to the
corner drugstore.
still hungry, we ran for a donut
and a brownie on the side.

a world without its merchants would be a world of
empty stomachs,
discontented individuals,
and a school without its yearbook.

The Art of Frying Chicken

The gentle art of frying chicken in a "heavenly manner" is given to but a few persons on this earth. Some mothers can do it. A few chefs can be mentioned. But, the true "artists" of this profession are, amazingly enough, high school boys!

Trained for months and months by Chuck Wheeler himself, these fortunate young men learn to turn out the tender, golden crusted, delicately-seasoned chicken in perfect batch after batch, around the clock from 11 a.m. until 11 p.m., seven days a week. Many of them earn college money in this manner. Constant dedication to the goal of perfect fried chicken is a wonderful character builder and a lesson in modern methods, combined with an old-fashioned appreciation of flavors and the human ingredient. When you enjoy Kentucky Fried Chicken from Chuck Wheeler's, you know the tenderness, flavor, and perfection of each piece of chicken is no accident. Chuck planned it that way.
